Perkins Power on the Farm Award 2019

Calling all agricultural journalists – we need your entries for this year's Power on the Farm Award.

For more than 45 years Perkins has worked hand-in-hand with the British Guild of Agricultural Journalists (BGAJ) – so much so that our annual Power on the Farm Award is now a highlight in the Guild's event calendar.

How do I enter?

Entry is simple as we're just looking for an article that you wrote and had published in 2018.

Email us a copy of the article by May 17 and a sentence or two about its purpose. You can then sit back and wait to hear if you have won.

What's in it for me?

Aside from being in with a chance of winning one of four cash prizes, you'll be treated to a spectacular day in London.

This year's winners will be treated to a very special dining experience, as Perkins looks to deliver yet another memorable event.

Over the last few years our award winners have dined at the likes of The Savoy, The Ivy and The Ritz; enjoyed a high speed boat ride on The Thames, made pasta and Chinese food with some of the city's best chefs and even got to spend quality time with celebrity co-host of Countryfile, Adam Henson.

Terms of entry

Entries must have been published in the UK between January 1 and December 31, 2018. The subject of 'power' on the farm should be considered in its widest sense, therefore entries are not confined to stories about machinery.

Submissions can be made by the author or a third party. Only one entry per person.

Closing date for entries is May 17, 2019

The competition is not open to 1st prize winners of the past three years. The competition is still open however to runners up.

All entrants must be available to attend the awards celebration in London on Thursday July 18, 2019 (winners will be notified on June 21, 2019).
